Town Hall study

Design plans on hold for now

By Erin Dale
edale@wickedlocal.com

Rather than voting on design plans to renovate the historic Town Hall, Town Meeting is being asked to vote on a feasibility study and site analysis of the structure. The Annual Town Meeting is Monday, April 28.

Initial design plans were brought forth by the Town Hall Renovation and Restoration Committee and were expected to cost upwards of $600,000. The new study Town Meeting is being asked to approve is not to exceed $65,000.

Cohasset's Community Preservation Committee (CPC) already approved funding half of the design schemes, around $300,000; this proposal has been left off the Town Meeting warrant, which closed on Friday, April 11. Other CPC projects will still appear in a single article on the warrant.

After several board meetings with presentations by the Town Hall Renovation Committee chairman David Farrag and architect Eric Kluz, officials decided they would like more concrete information before having citizens vote on conceptual designs.

The committee was formed in 2012 to explore ways to restore the historic building, which was erected in 1857 and restored in the 1920s, with an addition built in 1987.

Last week the Board of Selectmen asked for "some additional study is done to help clarify the issues," said Town Manager Chris Senior.

Director of Project Management Brian Joyce described what is required to move the project forward.

Officials seek to protect town water supply

By Erin Dale
edale@wickedlocal.com

With Earth Month underway, Cohasset officials want residents to remember that trash and yard waste have their place – at the town dump, not in the local water supply.

Water Commissioner Leonora Jenkins is speaking up against pollution in the Ellms Meadow well field, raising the matter during a recent Board of Selectmen meeting.

"Some of the selectmen were unaware that the neighborhood was dumping their yard waste and brush on the town property," Jenkins explained in an email. "I indicated that this has been a problem for a very long time and with the well field just being reopened [on March 26] that provides at least 20 percent of the town's water supply, we would like to alleviate this problem."

During a recent walk along James Lane and Cushing Road, Jenkins pointed out trash and even discarded Christmas trees littering the town-owned property.

The well field "should be the gem" of the town's water supply, said Jenkins – not a trash heap.

Residents should be aware that since the well field opened on March 26, "we're getting so much of our water from there," said Jenkins. "Within the first

Charlotte Reel

Name: Charlotte Reel.

Occupation: Graduate student in management.

Best day of your life: ...is yet to come. My life has been amazing so far, but it's always nice to have something to look forward to.

Favorite season: Summer, or the short window of time during which New England isn't cold.

Best vacation: Summer vacation, obviously.

Favorite holiday: Billie.

Favorite junk food, meal or dessert: I wouldn't pass up a good cannoli.

Best book: Comedy writer/actor Mindy Kaling's "Is Everyone Hanging Out Without Me? (And Other Concerns)" is quite enjoyable.

Best movie or actor: "Galaxy Quest" is always a go-to. Very funny with a great ensemble cast.

Best TV show: It's a toss up between "30 Rock" and "Seinfeld."

Best music, group or artist: There is no genre that I dislike, so if you recognize me on the street from this picture, please flag me down and recommend me some music. Bonus points if you hand me a mixtape.

Pet peeve: When people sweat the small stuff.

The Mariner caught up with Charlotte Reel at the Ground Level café at Beechwood Congregational in Cohasset. If you see Charlotte around town, be sure to tell her that you spotted her in Picture This! PHOTO/ERIN DALE

Most embarrassing moment: This one time, I was randomly featured in the town street...that was pretty embarrassing.

Person you would most like to meet: I suppose meeting Jane Austen might be fun. We could talk about how we share a birthday and make witty social commentary together.

Goal: To leave the world in better shape than I found it in.

Biggest worry: [checks pockets]...did I forget something?

Best part of Cohasset: The fact that it's nearly impossible to go anywhere in town without encountering a stunning water view along the way.

Raid leads to heroin trafficking charges

At about 6:30 a.m. on Friday, April 11, Cohasset police officers and detectives executed a no-knock search warrant at the home of 29-year-old Joseph J. Niessink, 40 Forest Ave. Niessink was living by himself in a home owned by his parents.

Detective Lt. Gregory Lennon alleges in a 24-page affidavit that was filed with the Quincy District Court, that Niessink has been using his parent's home to run a heroin distribution operation on Forest Avenue.

During the early morning search detectives seized a large quantity of brown powder which is believed to be heroin, prescription pills, packaging equipment, scales, US currency, and other evidence of alleged drug dealing. A 2004 Dodge Intrepid, which is registered to Niessink, was also seized. Additionally, Niessink was in possession of a state issued EBT in another person's name. Detectives will notify the State Department of Transitional Assistance and launch an investigation into possible welfare fraud.

Niessink was charged with: Trafficking in Class "A" (Heroin); Possession of Class "A" with the intent to distribute; Possession of Class "D" (Marijuana) with the intent to distribute; Possession of Class "B" (Prescription pills); Possession of Class "C" (Prescription pills); and Possession Class "E" (Prescription pills).

Acting Chief of Police William Quigley praised the work of officers and detectives and stated: "This arrest should send a clear message that our community has zero tolerance for heroin. I have a staff of highly motivated officers that are well trained. They leave no stone unturned in their efforts to arrest dealers and protect neighborhoods from deadly drugs."

Detective Sergeant Craig Lepro and Detective Sergeant Bart Forzese of the Hull Police Department assisted Cohasset with this case. Additional support was received from the New England State Police Information Network.

New AED helps save woman's life

By Mary Ford
mford@wickedlocal.com

Police officers responded to a 9-1-1 call from a bank on Chief Justice Cushing Highway (Route 3A) on Saturday (April 12) about a woman who had collapsed. When the officers arrived they started CPR and used one of the newly acquired police department Automatic External Defibrillators (AEDs) to restore her heart rhythm. Paramedics then arrived, administered advanced care and transported her to the hospital. Police said she is recovering from an apparent heart attack.

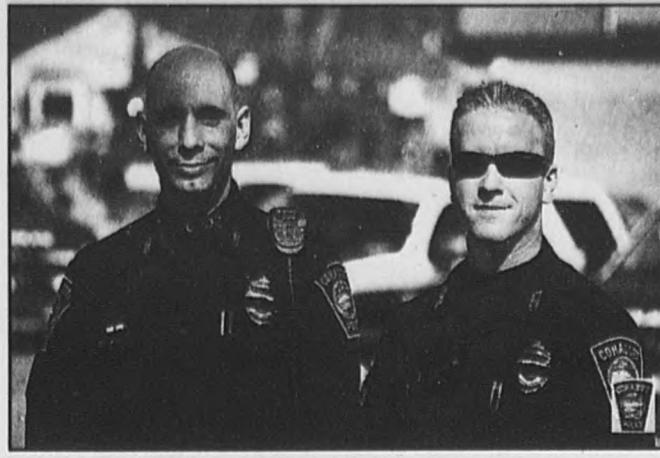

Acting Chief William Quigley said he applied for a grant for the AEDs from the state Executive Office of Public Safety and Security when the grant was announced the end of March. On April 2, the department learned the grant to pay for half the cost would be awarded. Quigley went before the Advisory Committee for the balance. (The total cost was $14,600 with the town contributing $7,300).

Ten defibrillators arrived on Monday (April 7). Officer Paul Wilson trained the officers and the devices were placed in all police cars as well as at the station. Previously the department had access to three defibrillators on loan from the fire department. The following Saturday, a woman's life was saved thanks to a new AED.

"Although Officers Chris Dias and Paul Wilson deployed the new AEDs from the trunk of their cruiser that day, members of the Advisory Committee made this rescue possible by supporting the reserve fund transfer of funds earlier in the month," Acting Chief William Quigley said.

Car vs. truck

At 10:32 a.m. on Wednesday (April 9), police responded to a two-vehicle crash by St. Anthony's Church. Police said a 74-year-old Weymouth woman in a 2004 Honda Civic did not yield when she drove across S. Main Street from Spring Street to Summer Street into the path of a 2010 Mac Truck that was headed north on South Main. The truck was driven by a 47-year-old Pembroke man who reported that the Civic darted out in front of him. There was damage to the rear passenger side of the Civic but little damage to the truck. The Civic was towed; there were no injuries. The Weymouth woman was issued a citation for failure to yield, police said.

Unwanted attention

Police responded to Stop & Shop on Wednesday (April 9) when the manager reported inappropriate activity by a customer that involved a 16-year-old boy employed by the store. Investigation revealed a 61-year-old Cohasset man approached the boy and offered to give him a back rub. The boy recoiled at what happened, told his mother, and they reported the incident to the manager who called police.

Parking lot

Police responded to an accident in the parking lot of Old Colony Place off Chief Justice Cushing Highway (Route 3A) at 10:20 a.m. on Thursday (April 10). Police said a 1989 GMC pickup truck, operated by a 20-year-old Hingham man, backed into a parked, unoccupied 2013 Honda Crosstour, owned by a 71-year-old Cohasset man. The Hingham man explained that the car was in his blind spot, police said. There was substantial damage to the back driver's side of Honda, but it did not have to be towed. The driver of the pickup was not cited because the accident occurred on private property, police said.

Intoxicated

Police took a 54-year-old Cohasset man into protective custody after responding to a call from Papa Gino's on Friday (April 11) around 6:18 p.m. about a man who was intoxicated that had bought a pizza and was in the parking lot. Police found the man who was eating his pizza in a 2008 Ford van. While speaking to him, they detected the strong odor of alcohol emanating from the vehicle; he subsequently failed a series of field sobriety tests and was placed in protective custody. His van was towed.

Warrant arrest

Police responded to a call from a woman in the Avalon complex wanting her 28-year-old son removed from the property. Police responded and conducted a check on the son, who was escorted off the

Heroin likely caused death

Police responded to a 9-1-1 call at 6:30 a.m. yesterday (Thursday, April 17) from the Avalon complex about a 24-year-old man who was not breathing. When officers arrived it was determined it was a sudden death. While it is early in the investigation, the man's death appears to be heroin-related. Cohasset detectives along with State Police detectives assigned to the District Attorney's Office will be investigating. No further information was available by press time.

2-car crash

At 11:44 a.m. on Sunday (April 13), police responded to a motor vehicle crash by Starbucks on Chief Justice Cushing Highway (Route 3A). A 2006 Honda Element, operated by a 42-year-old Scituate woman, failed to yield to northbound traffic when exiting the Starbucks drive-thru and hit a 2004 Toyota Corolla, operated by a 58-year-old Braintree woman. The Scituate woman and the 86-year-old female passenger in the Corolla were all transported to the hospital. Both cars were towed. The operator of the Honda was cited for failure to yield, police said.

Expired license

An officer was running radar on South Main Street around 11 a.m. on Monday (April 7) when a 2010 Honda Pilot passed by him that was traveling 37 mph in a 25 mph zone. He pulled the vehicle over in the 200 block of South Main Street. Investigation revealed that the driver, a 44-year-old Scituate woman, had a license that expired in March. She was cited for speeding and will be summonsed to court for unlicensed operation. A licensed passenger took custody of her car so it was not towed, police said.

Lost in woods

A woman who was lost either in Whitney Woods or Wompatuck State Park called the Environmental Police business line looking for help on Monday (April 7) around 3:30 p.m. The Environmental Police then notified Cohasset police.

Ultimately she found her own way out of the woods. Police ask residents in that situation to call 9-1-1 because their location can be tracked and help can be on the way sooner.

WATER

week it was opened, it was producing 27 percent of the total demand. And that was just in the first week - it's increased a little since then."

The well field will stay open "until the ground becomes frozen," and the percentage of water coming from Ellms Meadow will only change if the water table is too low, such as in the case of drought, Jenkins explained.

The water commissioner reminded that all of the water in the town buildings is produced from the water department - including the children's drinking water in schools.

Dumping yard waste there might not seem like a major problem, however the water commissioner explained that chemicals from the lawn waste could leach into the water supply.

"We have no idea what the area residents are using on their lawns and what is being dumped in this sensitive area," said Jenkins, explaining that former water commissioner John McNabb had a bylaw passed several years ago that deals with treating lawns in the Cohasset watershed area (see sidebar).

"The one thing that is repeatedly stated are acts that will degrade the water supply and the dumping of brush and yard waste containing unknown fertilizers, herbicides or animal fecal matter can have an impact on the town water supply," Jenkins explained.

The chief concern is that Ellms Meadow produces the highest quality, lowest costing water in town - and the water department would like to keep it that way.

Water Commission chairman Peter DeCaprio, who is wrapping up his service on the board, told the selectmen Tuesday that Ellms Meadow has "our lowest costing, best water" in Cohasset.

Jenkins reiterated this in a phone call Wednesday. "It costs less than to have the water come from there rather than Lily Pond, which costs so much because of the treatment."

Water from Ellms Meadow costs $121 per million gallons (mg) while Lily Pond costs $285/mg, said Jenkins.

DeCaprio pointed out that the dumping problem occurs "not just at Ellms Meadow; we find we have to pick up trash at all our" well fields. "We're not sure how to stop it."

Selectman Karen Quigley said that public education should help.

"Most people probably don't realize that's contributing to the water supply," said Quigley. "Unless people become knowledgeable and educated, they don't ask."

Signage

Selectman Martha Gjestebey said there should be a "no dumping" sign posted at the well field to help prevent polluting. Jenkins said in a phone call that there are some signs posted, and she has contacted Director of Project Management and Planning

A large pile of cut branches sits in the woods along Cushing Road.

What the bylaws say

Cohasset has bylaws in place to protect the local water supply.

Article VII - Safety and Public Order - Section 19 prohibits dumping on public land.

There are two articles in place to protect water quality in particular:

Article XIV - Wetlands Protection

- Section 2: "No person shall remove, fill, dredge, build upon or alter the resource area."
- Section 8 - (d) dumping, discharging or filling with any materials which may degrade water quality.
- Fine: no more than $300 per day.

Article XV - Stormwater Management

- Section 3, Definitions 2: "Dumping, discharging or filling with any material or removal of material which would alter elevations or change drainage patterns or degrade water quality."
- Fine of $100 per day.

Brian Joyce to have more made.

Jenkins said the signage issue would be an agenda item for the Thursday, April 17 Water Commission meeting (after the Mariner's print deadline).

In the meantime, there are other ways to mitigate the issue - letting residents know what, exactly, they should do with their yard waste.

"All of the material that is being dumped here - brush, tree limbs, old Christmas trees, lawn clippings, leaves, etc. - is accepted for free at the [Recycling Transfer Facility] as is your regular household trash when you purchase a facility sticker," said Jenkins.

Cohasset Boy Scouts also provide a community service, picking up Christmas trees in January.

There are also regularly posted brush days at the RTF, which are printed in the Mariner. Residents can burn brush in their yards until May 1; burning permits are available through the Fire Department, at the station or via the town website (cohassetmass.org).

Following these protocols will eliminate unnecessary fines, said Jenkins. "So it is not as though there is no other way to eliminate this material from the homeowners' yard at little (minimal fire permit fee) or no cost, besides illegally dumping it on town-owned land that contains the water supply."

Look for more on this issue in an upcoming edition of the Mariner.

Happy Birthday, Johnny Mello!

Moments

Hi there Cohasset! As we remember and reflect on all who were affected by the bombings of last year's Boston Marathon, our minds are filled with so many thoughts, memories and life. Please take the time each day to respect, love and hold those who are in your lives and enjoy all the small moments that happen as life just changes so fast. The moments become memories and we need to hold all that we can near and dear to our heart.

Birthday wishes

We have a wonderful man in town who recently celebrated his 90th birthday and we would like to wish him a very Happy Birthday! Johnny Mello turned 90 years young on April 9th and enjoyed his special day. Johnny is a life-long resident of Cohasset, a veteran, past Commander of the George H. Mealey Post and was a letter carrier in Cohasset for 37 years...what a wonderful life you have led. Diane, his beautiful wife, is seen in this photo with him and is so proud. Happy Birthday, Johnny.

Stonehill

Hats off to Cohasset resident, Samantha Sears, on being inducted into the Lambda Epsilon Sigma Honor Society at the recent Scholars Celebration at Stonehill College on April 2nd.

The Lambda Epsilon Sigma is Stonehill's Honor Society. The purpose of the society is to recognize and promote scholarship. Juniors and seniors who have attained a 3.5 cumulative grade point average are invited to apply for consideration. Acceptance into the society is based on evidence of academic achievement, of a pursuit of learning that extends beyond the classroom envi-

GIMME SHELTER

Zeus is a king among cats

CASEY FREDETTE

Zeus was the father of Gods and men, our Zeus thinks that he is one in the same. At 3 years old, this Ragdoll mix is full of life! Zeus is as playful as a kitten and he believes that his way should be the only way, all the time. You can't blame him for wanting to live life on his own terms as Zeus was recently surrendered to a local animal control department. He was held there for several weeks before he was transferred to Hull Seaside. That alone is a lot of change to be put through. In addition to all of that, Zeus was promptly neutered upon his arrival to the shelter. The surgery was not the warm welcome he was hoping for! After a few days of healing time Zeus started to show whom he really was: a great, loving, and bossy boy.

When this cross-eyed fella sets his eyes on you he won't let anything stand in his way, including the other cats. Zeus craves warmth and tenderness, and he is not inclined to share it. He will thrive as the only pet in his new forever home. Zeus will go out of his way to get your attention, like all big personalities.

Zeus is a cat you have to meet. His personality, although quirky at times, is one that will draw you in. It's hard to spend time with this boy and not find something special to love about him. He, like so many shelter animals has had a rough start and now Zeus is waiting for his perfect home. A home where he is loved, where he can sit up high on his throne and watch his family in comfort.

Come see this wonderful, young cat- open hour are Mondays 6:30-7:30 pm and Saturdays 2-3 pm. Want more information? Call Judy, adoption coordinator at 781-534-4902 to find out more about Zeus and all of our other cats and kittens.

Cohasset man honors memory of Krystle Campbell

One year ago, three people tragically lost their lives when explosions rocked the finish line of the Boston Marathon.

Krystle Campbell, a young woman from Medford and student at UMass Boston, was one of those victims.

In the days following this tragedy, Krystle's family experienced a tremendous outpouring of support from around the county, including here in Cohasset where local resident and University of Massachusetts Trustee Richard Campbell (no relation) and his wife Barbara felt compelled to honor Krystle's time at UMass through the creation of the Krystle Campbell Scholarship Fund.

"My wife and I were so touched by her story that we wanted to do something to allow her legacy to live on," said Richard. "Though we are not related to Krystle, I felt a special connection to her. We both grew up in the same suburb, graduated from the same high school, and worked long hours to pay our way through college. I can think of no better way to honor her legacy than through this scholarship."

The Krystle Campbell Scholarship Fund honors the 29-year-old UMass Boston alumna and Medford resident by providing monetary support to students across the five campuses of UMass through scholarships and other projects that advance young women who are interested in pursuing careers in business.

"Trustee Campbell's tremendous generosity has been an inspiration to all of us associated with the University of Massachusetts and all affected by the tragedy," said UMass President Robert L. Caret. "Even though he was not related to Krystle and they had never met, he saw aspects of himself in her, and he turned the bond he felt into a determination to commit significant resources and time to keeping her spirit and memory alive."

"Not only do these gifts ensure that Krystle's memory will carry on, they provide an opportunity for scholarship recipients to achieve their academic goals."

Thanks to Richard and Barbara Campbell, the fund currently stands at over $300,000 in cash and commitments and is growing thanks to the help of the Run for Krystle Boston Marathon team, which recently surpassed their fundraising goal of $50,000.

The 15-member Run for Krystle Boston Marathon team includes members of Richard's family and students and alumni representing each of the five UMass campuses.

"There has been a tremendous outpouring of donations to the scholarship fund since the UMass marathon team began its fundraising, which is a direct reflection of Krystle's warm personality," said Campbell. "Not only do these gifts ensure that Krystle's memory will carry on, they provide an opportunity for scholarship recipients to achieve their academic goals."

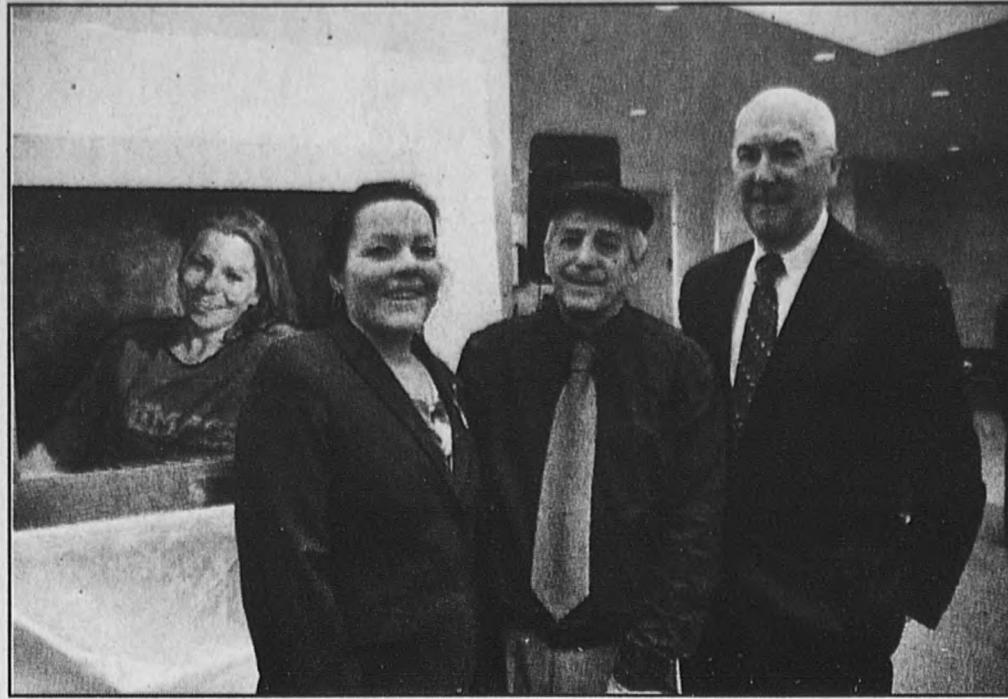

Krystle was a Sociology student at UMass Boston from 2005-2007 and is remembered as a passionate learner and diligent student.

At UMass Boston's 45th commencement ceremony on May 31, 2013, Chancellor J. Keith Motley awarded Krystle's brother a posthumous Bachelor of Arts degree on behalf of his sister.

"Krystle worked tirelessly to get a quality education and I think we can all relate to her drive and ambition," said Richard. "Although her journey was tragically cut short, her memory will live on forever through the Krystle Campbell Scholarship Fund."

PRESERVATION

State proposes $25M for CPA

By Erin Dale
edale@wickedlocal.com

Community preservation is getting a boost in the state budget this coming fiscal year.

The House Committee on Ways and Means released their state budget proposal last week, including a $25 million transfer from the fiscal year 2014 budget surplus to the state Community Preservation Act (CPA) trust fund.

According to the Community Preservation Coalition, having this funding included in the recommended budget as opposed to having it added later as an amendment, is a sign of support from House leaders in regards to community preservation.

Cohasset has its own Community Preservation Committee (CPC), which formed as an outgrowth of the state Community Preservation Act (CPA), a 13-year-old law that set the stage to increase the amount of historical preservation, open space, affordable housing, recreational facilities, and other community enrichment projects.

There are over 150 Massachusetts communities that have adopted the CPA.

The CPC is required to set aside 10 percent of its revenues, excluding the state's matching funds, for recreation, open space and affordable housing in particular. The funds come from a 1.5 percent surcharge on Cohasset property taxes with some level of state match.

The $25 million proposed funding is good news for the CPC.

Cohasset CPC chairman Russ Bonetti said that these funds would "enable the CPC to fund more projects that help preserve and improve the character of Cohasset."

Bonetti explained, "Should the additional funding survive the budget process, it would bring our state match up to the 50 percent-plus level."

This would be the second year in a row in which the state match was in that percentage range, the chairman said. When the CPA was first adopted, the state match was at 100 percent, however "it fell way off for a few years now to get a 50 percent-plus rate of return."

Bonetti believes that the 1.5 percent surcharge on taxes is "money well spent."

Cohasset's CPC had projected the FY15 state match to be approximately $95,969, around 23 percent. "With this additional money," said Bonetti, "our match should be in the $200,000 range."

CPC articles

Last week the Board of Selectmen voted unanimously in favor of the Community Preservation Committee articles on the Annual Town Meeting warrant (Town Meeting is Monday, April 28).

Several projects are included in the article, but each will be voted separately on the Town Meeting floor: paving the Deer Hill basketball courts, purchasing a conservation restriction for land off of Norman Todd Road; restoring the Lawrence Wharf pavilion, and adding new signage and benches near the pavilion to commemorate the upcoming 400th anniversary of Captain John Smith landing in Cohasset harbor.

"The CPC has always been well supported by the residents and the attendees at Town Meeting," said Bonetti. "We appreciate their continued support."

For further information on the proposed CPC projects, see the Town Meeting Warrant. Citizens are encouraged to review the articles thoroughly and bring the warrant to Town Meeting.

come from Community Preservation funds under the recreation category. The committee will continue to explore options.

"As we get further along, we'll be building a complete proposal that will have all the costs and benefits and potential problems laid out," said Morse.

In the meantime, Cohasset's dog park committee can look to other communities as a guide.

"One of the good things we have going for us is that many towns have gone before us that are great examples across the country of places that have been successful," Morse said.

How to join
More volunteers are sought for the group, particularly those with expertise in landscape engineering and design, canine behavior, legal expertise, project budgeting or other project skills that could help bring an off-leash dog park to fruition.

Morse said that all are welcome to apply - "Any dog lovers for sure, but it's going to be a lot of work; it should be folks who have the energy to do research and put a proposal together."

Those interested in joining should contact Morse at morseq@comcast.net.

DOG PARK

dog park can benefit the Cohasset community.

In her research of dog parks all over the country, Morse said that she keeps coming across stories of "people who lived in town and didn't know each other [that] met at the dog park."

"There are so many dog owners in town," Morse added. "If they had a place in town, it would be better for the socialization of the dogs themselves, and clearly a great way for people to sit on a bench and have a conversation with someone they would not have met [otherwise]."

The committee formed a week ago and so far consists of Morse, Gaumer, resident Leah Spada of the Scituate Animal Shelter, Animal Control Officer Paul Murphy, K9 Officer Patrick Reardon, and Town Manager Chris Senior.

Early stages

So far, the committee is "very preliminary," said Morse, having had its first meeting a week ago. While Morse said that some of "the most obvious places" for a dog park in town were discussed, a set location has yet to be identified.

"It's a lot of work to figure out where it might go, how it could be built, and how to run it in the long-term," said Morse. A choice location would be "any bit of under-utilized town land that would be accessible and have the possibility of parking or already have some parking," Morse explained.

While the committee is still new, Gaumer noted that they have already "quickly covered a lot of ground. While none of the particulars are laid out at this point...it seems like there's greater potential than I thought."

Gaumer credited Morse for coming across a potential grant that would fund 90 percent of the costs of a dog park, available from the Stanton Foundation, which helped fund dog parks in Arlington and Chelmsford.

"They specifically give grants to communities for design and installation of dog parks," said Morse, adding that the grant is "not competitive, so we don't have to beat anybody else out for it; we just have to qualify."

Community support is key to winning the grant, Morse explained. The foundation "will fund a well thought out" dog park, she said, "one that has a plan for long-term maintenance, lots of public participation, and the support of the town itself."

Morse said the other 10 percent needed to fund the dog park could potentially come from Community Preservation funds under the recreation category. The committee will continue to explore options.

"As we get further along, we'll be building a complete proposal that will have all the costs and benefits and potential problems laid out," said Morse.

In the meantime, Cohasset's dog park committee can look to other communities as a guide.

"This will tell us where the actual property lines are, required setbacks for a new building if the Town decide to build one, who has rights of way or easements across the lot and how those will be affected by any changes," said Joyce.

Further analysis and modification of the concept designs would be conducted to establish which design scheme best fits within the town budget, the project management director said. Different construction methods, such as stick, steel, or modular, would be explored "to see which is most benefi-

"To go from conceptual to any project, we need to have more facts; that's what the selectmen are looking to fund," the town manager said.

Beechwood trees cut down

National Grid removed a strand of pine trees in Beechwood Cemetery along Doane Street that were considered dangerous. Fire Chief Robert Silvia reported to the Board of Selectmen Tuesday. The trees blocked emergency access during a 2012 winter storm and were deemed unsafe.

Silvia contacted National Grid about making the trees safer, assuming they were going to be topped; on Monday morning, he learned that the trees had been removed entirely.

Agnes McCann, a Doane Street resident, said she was "very happy to see the trees come down."

Silvia encouraged the selectmen to write a thank you letter to an individual at National Grid, because the company does not normally provide this service. "This was a very unique situation that they were willing to step in and help us mitigate."

CAMP, SCHOOL and ACTIVITIES DIRECTORY

HOW SUMMER CAMPS KEEP KIDS HEALTHY

By Bette Bussel, Executive Director, American Camp Association, New England

A new study by Indiana University and Ohio State researchers found that children gain more weight over the summer than during the school year. However, a child's summer camp can provide the structure and activity needed to keep kids healthy year-round. According to research conducted by the American Camp Assoc., 63% of children who learn new activities at camp tend to continue engaging in these activities after they return home.

The whole camp environment promotes a healthy lifestyle and helps prevent childhood obesity, and it's not limited to the activities the campers are participating in. Camp includes a lot of physical activity, healthy eating and good nutrition, and a set sleep schedule, all of which many children with camp experience are missing out on.

Exercise: Summer camp life involves quite a bit of moving around, and no matter what, campers are always playing. Physical activities include swimming, dancing, swimming, navigating the ropes course, or hiking up a mountain, all require campers to move and burn calories in new ways. Even the walk from one activity to another might involve more steps than children typically take in a day.

Healthy Eating: At camp, food tends to be different than school cafeteria food and home food and snacks. Camp is all about trying out new experiences, and campers have an opportunity to try new foods - whether it's a new salad dressing from the salad bar at lunch or frozen yogurt instead of ice cream. Food service staff members and counselors are always looking for ways to make camp food healthier, and it's not just limited to the activities the campers are participating in.

Camp includes a lot of physical activity, healthy eating and good nutrition, and a set sleep schedule, all of which many children with camp experience are missing out on.

Sufficient Shutey: You will be amazed at how tired your camp is when he or she gets home from camp or even a session at overnight camp. Reports in fact show that bedtime happens on time or early most days for day campers. The desire to overeat and remain inactive is also reduced.

The American Camp Association, New England believes that all children need a broad range of opportunities to be physically active. Physical activity is associated with physical, emotional, social and psychological benefits. For more than 150 years, camp programs have sought ways to create healthy communities for children by providing environments that offer frequent and varied opportunities for physical activity. The healthy lifestyle learning curve can be steep, and camps encourage children and provide the learning, role models, coaching, inspiration, and encouragement that children need so they can form healthy habits for life.

Provided by the American Camp Association, New England, a 501 (c) 3 organization that serves families and camp professionals as the region's leading source for "all things summer camp." ## OUR VIEW

A stronger community

In many ways, it's hard to believe it's been a year since the Boston Marathon bombings. Partly it's because the images and stories from that day have been ever present. And, because we and our friends and families were directly involved, April 15, 2013 is not simply our past but our present.

In preparing for this solemn first anniversary of that tragedy, much has been made about lessons learned. Today isn't the day to discuss the perpetrators of the bombing or second-guess the response. This day belongs to us. This is a day to remember the dead, the injured, and the countless heroes who came to their aid.

Thousands of stories of heroic compassion have emerged in the days since the bombing. One of the iconic images shows Boston Firefighter Jimmy Plourde carrying bombing victim Victoria McGrath. In it, a colorful scarf is tied off just below her left knee, her legs are bloodied, one black shoe is missing and her face burrows into his shoulder as her arms cling to him for dear life. Moments before, Bruce Mendelsohn had tied the tourniquet around McGrath's leg, saving her from bleeding out after a piece of shrapnel had severed an artery.

We think of Bill Dockham, a nurse who volunteered to staff a medical tent just 50 feet from the finish line. After the bombs went off, he stepped outside and saw Jeff Bauman, who lost both legs to the bombs. Dockham said his instinct was to run, to save himself, but his heart overran his head and he stayed. For what seemed like hours, he treated those who had lost limbs and others bleeding out from shrapnel wounds.

There's Carlos Arredondo, a Gold Star father, who leaped across a fence, and comforted Bauman as another man tied tourniquets around the man's thighs. Together, they pushed Bauman in a wheelchair to a waiting ambulance and saved his life. Bauman is expecting his first child this summer.

There were the off-duty police officers, firefighters, veterans fresh from war, paramedics, doctors, nurses, all there to run or volunteer or cheer on another, but who instead went to work saving untold lives.

After 12 months of healing, the injured still carry scars. So do those who witnessed the horror first-hand. But even those who simply watched it unfold on TV, who heard the accounts from friends, who cried for victims they'd never met and sent money to help people they never knew, bear the marks of that day.

Hemingway wrote that "The world breaks everyone and afterward many are strong at the broken places." As we examine again those year-old wounds, we can take comfort in the strength the greater Boston community acquired through its pain.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Heroin bust was important service

Editor's note: Mr. Buckley provided a copy of his letter to the Mariner for publication.

To: Acting Chief Quigley
Please pass along my congrats to all the members of the department who worked on the heroin bust executed this past weekend in Cohasset. The department deserves to be commended for its actions.

The horrors of opiate addiction and overdose sweeping through so many South Shore communities today are well documented. Sadly, it's equally well documented that there's incredible pain in families of addicts, not to mention the pain in families victimized or killed by crime.

Final acts of addicts (i.e., Seabrook, N.H.; February article in Boston Sunday Globe).

It's all pretty darn scary to think about and because of that I say kudos to CPD for doing their part to execute a warrant and seize a significant quantity of heroin. Keep up the good work, CPD. Undoubtedly, you have saved a life – and you have certainly done the best thing possible for our community, including the best thing possible for the alleged dealer.

PS to readers: I'd add two things: If you haven't heeded the advice in the recent Mariner editorial to empty your medicine cabinet and turn in prescription opiates to the CPD, please do that today. And keep talking to all the kids in town – they do listen to adults, especially the ones who aren't their parents! It does take a village, as trite as that expression is.

Jack Buckley,
272 N. Main St.

Best use of existing sewer capacity

The Mariner's April 11 article reported on the Sewer Commissioners and the availability of existing capacity in our sewer treatment plant. I think we should keep in mind that the increased capacity of the plant was paid for solely by the users of the Little Harbor Sewer District, not by the town.

I believe that the existing capacity should be used first in the Little Harbor District to treat the flow from Deep Run and Rust Way, which currently flows to the Hull treatment facility. Also, I understand the existing capacity in Cohasset may be large enough to accept all of the North Cohasset District as well. Transferring the discharge from North Cohasset to the Cohasset plant would be an additional use for the existing capacity.

Both of these actions would release us from dependence on Hull and protect us from price increases required by Hull in the future. In my opinion, these actions represent the best use of the existing capacity in Cohasset.

Plans to replace 1987 wing

The Feasibility Study for 2014

The following is the sixth of eight articles by the Town Hall Restoration and Renovation Committee.

The Town Hall Restoration and Renovation Committee looked over a number of different options and schemes to restore and renovate the Town Hall. The full 247-page report is now on the Town Hall Website at www.coahassetmass.org. We invite everyone to review this document.

As per the report, the preferred Option is labeled D2 and consists of a two-story addition attached to the original 1857 structure transitioning into a larger, three-story administrative wing. The two-story element strives to be sympathetic and in harmony with the original while functionally providing a much-needed Multi-Purpose space immediately adjacent to the first floor auditorium. This space is conceived to be suitable to accommodate the third voter precinct as well as a multitude of other activities such as badly needed meeting space. The second story provides for a larger Selectmen's Chamber with associated hearing rooms and a tie to the three-story Administration wing.

One of the main problems with the current 1987 addition regarding renovation is that it is the floors don't match up due to the auditorium, which is why it is a two-story building and not a three-story building. Additionally, the 1987 addition runs parallel to Highland Avenue and due to its size limits the possible expansion of parking for the Town Hall site, not to mention the disjointed flow of traffic.

In plan D2, the main administrative wing will be organized to reflect the operations of town government with three major functions, permitting, finance, and administration. Those functions that produce the most foot traffic are located on the lower two floors while the third floor primarily provides for public hearing rooms and space for growth. When planning a new building while one doesn't want to create any "shadow" space there needs to be some space that can be used for storage, future office or meetings rooms. Through the years, the current Town Hall has seen a reduction in the meeting room space as one by one those areas became offices for new staff. Meeting room space was never replaced.

The plan also consists of expansive archival and storage space will be provided in the basement with room for the addition of a service kitchen in the future. It should be noted that under the Massachusetts Secretary of State rules, all "permanent" town records need to be housed in a vault for fire protection. Temporary records can be held on site in the offices.

The entire facility will have a completely new, state of the art infrastructure including HVAC, plumbing, electrical and fire safety systems. HVAC and lighting systems in particular will be designed to be above the average, energy efficient and eligible for energy and lighting rebates. It is recommended that the final design utilize a Variable Refrigerant System to facilitate maximum control and efficiency within the offices. It is also recommended that the Old Town Hall be climatized using a heat pump system that is more appropriate to the larger open space of the auditorium in particular. Programmatically the Old Town Hall will remain true to its current use as a multi-purpose auditorium.

The program will include the reconstruction of the stairway to the second level mezzanine, a new code compliant egress stair at the east end of the building and two new lifts, one to access the mezzanine and the other to access the dressing rooms below the stage.

The entire dressing area will be rebuilt in compliance with the Building and Accessibility Codes. The interior finishes of all remaining public spaces will be refinished in harmony with their original historic decoration. The exterior likewise will be restored consistent with the 1927 renovation with extensive repairs and refinish. Most noticeably will be the removal of all through the wall air conditioners and overhead wires.

A new graded access walkway will be constructed to provide accessible access to the front of the auditorium. The walkway will be graded at less than 5 percent in order to eliminate the need for unsightly handrails that would diminish the aesthetics of the building. The site plan proposes a total reconfiguration of the site in order to improve access and traffic flow and to establish a presence that is in harmony with the historic Cohasset Common. Key features will include an increase in the total number of parking spaces from 41 to at least 53 by identifying spaces dedicated to compact vehicles as a part of the mix.

In addition the site will provide improved drainage and discreet non-intrusive lighting. While Option D2 is the most expensive of all of the options it is viewed to be the most cost effective in that it provides an opportunity to design a new state of the art, energy efficient facility that is functionally appropriate to operations of a modern town government.

Her long marathon after the marathon

JOHN MCSHEFFREY

Sometimes bad things happen to good people, and sometimes bad things happen to good people when they are doing good things for others. Last April 15th, was one of those times and Kirsten Ripple is one of those good people.

Do you recall where you were when you learned of the terror attack at last year's Boston Marathon? Kirsten Ripple can. Having just finished her first marathon a few seconds earlier, she was standing exhausted a mere 40 feet away from the first explosion. Listening to Kirsten's story of that day, and of her journey over the past year both broke and warmed my heart. It's a story worth sharing.

Kirsten, the lead physical therapist at Kennedy Brothers on Route 3A, is a bundle of positive energy. She works hard to help kids and adults in the Cohasset/Scituate area recover from sustained injuries. If you have spent any time at Kennedy Brothers, or around her, you know what a positive force she is and how dedicated she is not only to her profession but to supporting the charitable endeavor Christmas in the City (CITC).

Last year, to help raise money for CITC, Kirsten challenged herself to run in her first marathon. Little did she know that her effort to help the homeless children of Boston would become a yearlong race to minimize the impact of Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder.

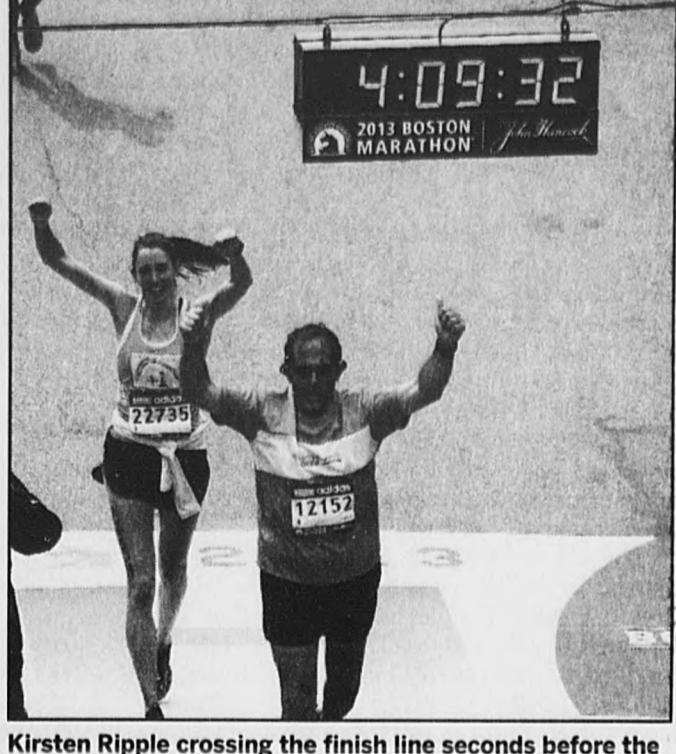

Patriots' Day was a gorgeous day, ideal for running and cheering on those who were running. Kirsten was making pretty good time as she turned onto Boylston Street for the final leg. The support of her friends, who ran alongside her at various times, helped propel her to the final stretch. Although she was exhausted as she rounded that corner, she hammered it up for a photographer, only to be surprised by the loud crowds and to realize how much further she actually had to reach the finish line.

The clock read 4:09:32 as she crossed the finish line waving her arms in triumph. It was one of the proudest moments of her life, because not only had she completed the full 26.2 miles, in the process she had raised over $6,800 for Christmas in the City.

For over 20 years, Christmas in the City, a not-for-profit endeavor, has worked tirelessly for Boston's homeless children. Last year, CITC provided Christmas gifts and warmth to 4,000 children in metro Boston, and gifts to another 10,000 children throughout the region. 14,000 needy children is a staggering number — a number almost equal to the entire population of Scituate.

At 4:09:32, Kirsten came to a stop a few dozen feet beyond the finish line. Her body ached and her head was dazed from the grueling run. She'd be one of the last to finish the marathon as the first deadly bomb went off behind her 11 seconds later, canceling the remainder of the race.

"I was looking away from the finish line when it sounded like a cannon went off directly behind me," Kirsten recalled. "Smoke and debris were everywhere, and I ducked under the photographer arches to avoid the falling debris. I was exhausted and physically drained from the race and trying to process everything that was happening when the second explosion occurred."

After the second explosion, total chaos ensued, and Kirsten got enveloped in the stampede of people fleeing the scene. She ended up at the Common, desperate to find her family, who was in town to cheer her on. With the help of others she eventually connected with her family and made her way home. Little did she know that an even harder race was about to begin.

The next morning Kirsten broke down crying, as the carnage of what she had witnessed was too much, but she convinced herself to put on a brave face and headed off to work, as if she wasn't fazed. As the news rapidly unfolded about law enforcement's efforts to identify and capture those who committed the bombings, Kirsten tried to go about things as always, but it was impossible. Everyone from the press, to her patients, to her closest friends all wanted to hear her story.

The more she told the story, the more her brain compartmentalized everything, and the more disassociated from the event she became.

Over the next weeks and months, the normally outgoing and vivacious therapist, did her best to avoid the story all together, convincing herself that life would be fine. Over time however, she found herself increasingly tense, feeling down and anxious about being around crowds of people. It wasn't until the middle of the summer, when she found herself overwhelmed by the crowd of people at concert at Fenway, did Kirsten realize that she was not longer the person she once was. By late fall, her efforts to ignore what happened had failed, and the dark events of April were taking their toll; it was time to reach out for help.

With help from her running group, Kirsten connected with a support group for individuals who bore witness to the bombings but were not physically impacted. The One Fund has done a stellar job addressing the needs of those who were physically injured in the attacks, but there are many more who didn't sustain physical injuries that day who have found it difficult moving forth.

Calling themselves the "Invisibly Injured" Kirsten's support group meets quite regularly and delves into the myriad of issues they're facing getting their lives back to normal. What's quite evident is that they are all suffering various degrees of Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD). A caring young woman who has focused her life on helping others, physically pushed herself to run her first marathon to benefit homeless children, and her reward is trying to conquer PTSD. This is not much of a feel good story is it? Well, there's more.

Kirsten avoided Boylston Street because of the painful memories, but after mustering the strength to go back to the finish line, she decided the best way to not let the perpetrators win, was to get back out on the course. After months of hiding, Kirsten decided that she was going to run the Boston Marathon again! Monday, Kirsten Ripple will slip on the number 28478 and strives conquer more than just Heartbreak Hill.

To say Kirsten's not nervous and anxious would be an outright lie; she is. When I asked why she was doing this she said "I have to. We can never take back that horrible day but we can take back Marathon Monday. It's always been a fun exciting happy day, a day where people run to help others and families celebrate. That's it, that's what Marathon Monday needs to be about."

She's most anxious about turning on to Boylston Street and making her way down towards the finish line. While most runners will be battling fatigue, cramps and exhaustion, Kirsten will be battling all of those, as well as the memories of what happened right behind her, eleven seconds after she had crossed the finish line. Now that's Boston Strong.

In part, her strength will come from focusing on the faces of the young kids she met at last year's Christmas in the City event. She's running to help them again. $10, $20, $50 or whatever you might be able to give, would be a wonderful way to assist someone who's a part of our community. Google "Kirsten Ripple Boston Marathon" to find the crowdfunder.com link, if you'd like to help.

Monday, I'll be with my family along the course, looking for #28478 and cheering on all the runners who together will be making the definitive statement that Marathon Monday does indeed belong to the people of Boston. Go Kirsten, run it for the kids, but run it for yourself too. We are behind you!!!

As always, thanks for reading.

STATEHOUSE

Domestic violence legislation passes

Will close loopholes in current law and create innovative approaches to end the cycle of domestic violence.

Rep. Garrett Bradley joined his colleagues in the House Wednesday, April 9, to pass comprehensive domestic violence legislation that creates new criminal offenses and elevated penalties, boosts prevention efforts and seeks to empower victims.

The legislation establishes a first offense domestic assault and battery charge that will allow officials to immediately identify an offender who has a history of domestic violence and take appropriate punitive action. As a result, a second offense charge of domestic violence will include cases in which a first offense had resulted in probation or a continuance without a finding. The bill also creates a specific charge of strangulation and suffocation, actions that statistically indicate an abuser is more likely to commit domestic violence related homicide in the future.

"As a former prosecutor, I have seen the toll domestic violence takes on families and children," said Bradley. "A multi-pronged approach, with an emphasis on protection services, closing loopholes in current laws and education, including initiatives in our schools, is crucial as part of the struggle against violence in the home."

"We, as public officials and as a society, must do everything in our power to stem the tragic tide of violence against women," House Speaker Robert A. DeLeo said. "This legislation represents some of the strongest, most comprehensive domestic violence legislation in at least a generation. I thank Attorney General Coakley and my colleagues in the House for their collaboration on this bill and offer my sincere gratitude to the advocates and individuals who so courageously shared their experiences."

The bill provides enhanced resources to help balance prevention and punishment. By standardizing records and mandating that they are shared across jurisdictions, the legislation ensures key decision-makers have the most accurate information and that parties have access to an offender's complete history.

The bill abolishes the antiquated practice of allowing accord and satisfaction, a practice in which parties agree to a private financial settlement, in domestic violence cases and establishes the below crimes:

- Domestic assault or domestic assault and battery near a court house; and
- Domestic assault or domestic assault and battery with the intent to intimidate or prevent access to courts.

In an effort to consistently improve prevention efforts the legislation establishes enhanced training programs and creates Domestic Fatality Review Teams that will investigate domestic violence related fatalities. The state-level review teams will serve as a tool to help officials understand any shortcomings present in current protocol.

The bill also includes the following provisions:

- Delays bail for offenders to provide the victim with time for safety planning and authorizes the revocation of bail in certain cases;
- Establishes employment leave for victims of domestic violence;
- Establishes fees for domestic violence offenses. These will be invested in the newly created Domestic Violence Prevention and Victim Assistance fund;
- Broadens court authorization related to custody and support orders; and
- Requires law enforcement agencies to provide information on batterer's intervention to defendants when serving them with a Chapter 209A restraining order.

The legislation also promotes innovative approaches such as multidisciplinary high-risk teams and a grants program to provide assistance to victims of domestic violence.

The bill passed the House unanimously.

TOWN MEETING

Water, sewer budgets on docket

By Erin Dale
edale@wickedlocal.com

Voters will be asked to approve the $4,795,325 million Water Department Fiscal Year 2015 budget and the $2,429,875 Sewer Department budget during the Monday, April 28 Annual Town Meeting.

The Board of Selectmen voted unanimously (5-0) to recommend both budgets for the Town Meeting warrant, which was already finalized and mailed to citizens.

The water and sewer commission chairmen both came before the selectmen Tuesday night to go over highlights in their budgets.

Water

The Water Department is asking for approval of its nearly $4.8 million budget, which includes expenses and debt service.

Water Commission chair Peter DeCaprio explained that one of the department's most variable costs is utilities, however crediting former Acting Town Manager Michael Milanoski for negotiating "a nice rate last year." The FY15 budget includes $121,500 for electric, heat and phone service.

Overall, said DeCaprio, the water budget is "pretty simple. We budget to one final number."

The department takes in approximately $4 million per year from connection fees, between $700,000 and $800,000 in other revenues, and around $300,000 in hydrant charges. For the last two years, said DeCaprio, the department has run $200,000 ahead of its revenues.

The chairman, who will be stepping down from the board following this May's Town Election, was asked to share what he thought a five-year projection for the water department might be.

DeCaprio said the department "is in its sweet spot right now" with a debt service reduction. However, an expensive long-term capital project is Lily Pond, which is expensive to treat for chemicals.

"We have to bite the bullet and accept that Lily Pond is a sub-standard reservoir," said DeCaprio, adding that one day the water department is "probably going to have to build a pre-treatment facility."

The chairman said that an ozone treatment plant could probably be built for under $3 million. However, this "decision can continue to be pushed off" at the moment, said DeCaprio, adding that the town "should wait a year and see how the plant's doing."

Selectman Steve Gaumer asked if the department was still devoted to keeping rates low. DeCaprio said that since he is leaving, "It's not going to be my decision," adding that however, "Residents should expect reductions in their rates because that's what we promised people, and the debt service rolls off pretty quickly. I don't see why the rates shouldn't [continue to] go down."

Sewer

The Sewer Department budget totals over $2.4 million, including debt service.

Sewer Commission chairman Brian Taylor Baldwin was up front with the selectmen about the sewer department's indicated deficit of $340,000, explaining that the department bills on a quarterly basis based on revenues.

"We get betterment income and will be getting another quarter's worth of payment," said Baldwin, adding, "It may look like we're in dire straits, but we're actually headed where we were this time last year."

In fact, the department appears to be heading toward a surplus, the sewer chair explained. "We're under expenses right now," adding that the department usually ends with a $200,000 to $300,000 surplus. "We're tracking toward that."

However, there may be a larger deficit looming in FY16 and '17. Baldwin expects the sewer plant's membranes will need to be replaced; they have been in place since the plant was renovated in 2006. The membranes were expected to last eight to 10 years.

"According to the projected use for life, they're going to exceed that soon," said Baldwin, adding that this project could cost $1.2 million. The sewer chair suggested paying that amount over two fiscal years, rather than all at once.

Selectman Gaumer wondered if the department's retained earnings could pay for the membranes. Baldwin suggested setting up a capital stabilization fund for the project, adding, "We may have to bond the rest," depending on how much money is allocated to the fund.

While the membranes will eventually need replacing, Baldwin said the matter could wait for a while. "We can keep kicking this down the road because [the membranes] won't fail immediately."

Selectman Karen Quigley asked if there would be compliance issues once the membranes start to degrade; Baldwin said they would simply become clogged and unable to "pass as much material through."

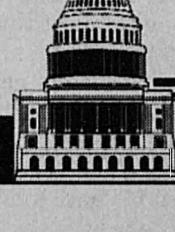

There is some good news for ratepayers in the near future; the department does not anticipate a rate increase for 2015, and has not increased rates since 2006. However, Baldwin noted that this could change in 2016.

"We've been able to enjoy a lot of new users and connection fees last year," Baldwin explained. "We're not going to have a lot of new users [this year]. Revenues are going to flatten out."

The department is doing what it can to keep costs low, the sewer commissioner said. "We're doing the best we can to manage our expenses, but eventually there's going to be a need to find other revenue sources."

THE HOUSE AND SENATE: Beacon Hill Roll Call records local senators' votes on two roll calls and local representatives' votes on six roll calls from the week of April 7-11.

RULES FOR HOUSE BUDGET DEBATE (H 2999)

House 117-29, voted strictly along party lines and approved a set of Democratic leadership-sponsored rules to be followed when the House considers the fiscal 2015 state budget beginning on April 28. A key provision bars members from proposing amendments dealing with local aid or welfare. Supporters said that these rules are fair and responsible and will help make the budget debate go smoothly. Opponents said it was unfair and undemocratic to prohibit amendments on local aid and welfare. (A "Yes" vote is for the rules. A "No" vote is against the rules.)

MAKE IT HARDER TO SHIP BUDGET AMENDMENTS OFF TO STUDY COMMITTEES (H 2999)

House 29-17, voted strictly along party lines and rejected a Republican-sponsored rule requiring a two-thirds vote to ship proposed amendments off to a study committee unless the sponsor of the original amendment agrees with conducting a study. The rule is designed to stop what Republicans describe as successful attempts by Speaker Robert DeLeo and his Democratic leadership team to prevent Democratic members from having to vote directly against many GOP proposals including ones to reduce taxes. Here's an example of how the GOP says it works: The Republicans offer a proposal to reduce the income tax from 5.3 percent back to 5 percent. If the Democratic leadership does nothing, there would be a roll call vote directly on the tax reduction. Most Democrats would vote against the reduction and then would be open to charges of being against tax relief. Instead, a Democratic member offers a "delaying" amendment that would prohibit the tax reduction from taking effect until the Department of Revenue studies its economic impact. Under House rules, the amendment to study and delay the tax cut is voted upon first. If it passes, which it always does, no other amendments can be introduced and the original proposal that would simply cut the tax is dead without ever having a direct vote on it. Republicans say the studies are a sham because they are never done. They say this is all pre-planned by the Democratic leadership, that the Speaker at the podium calls upon a representative who is loyal to him and the member proposes the delay and study. Even if a Republican member is waving his or her hand and shouting to be recognized, he or she will not be called upon because he or she would not propose the delay and study. Some Democrats say the study is often a legitimate option to examine the impact of the tax reduction. Other Democrats acknowledge that the study is proposed to prevent a direct vote on the tax reduction. Supporters of the Republican-proposed rule said this Democratic ploy is used to confuse the voters. They argued that the new rule would at least give supporters of tax reduction amendments a better opportunity to successfully force a vote directly on the tax cuts. Opponents of the rule said the current system has worked fine. They argued raising the bar to a two-thirds majority is a for all kinds of legislation. (A "Yes" vote is for the rule requiring a two-thirds vote. A "No" vote is against the rule.)

ALLOW DEBATE ON LOCAL AID (H 2999)

House 31-115, voted mostly along party lines and rejected an amendment allowing members to offer budget amendments dealing with local aid. The rules proposed by the Democratic leadership prohibit consideration of any local aid amendments. Two Democrats voted with GOP legislators to allow members to file local aid amendments. The House, three weeks prior to this roll call, approved resolutions stating the intent of the Legislature to hike Chapter 70 school aid by $100 million and unrestricted local aid by $25 million. Amendment supporters said it is undemocratic and restrictive to prohibit members from offering increases in local aid. They noted that the non-binding local aid promise already approved by the House should represent the minimum amount of local aid that would be delivered and argued that members should still have the power to offer additional amendments to increase local aid when the budget debate begins. Amendment opponents said that the House debated for several hours before approving the hike in Chapter 70 school aid by $100 million and the hike in unrestricted local aid by $25 million, and noted that members should not deviate from that promised amount. They said that it is important for cities and towns to know how much local aid they will receive and argued that if are allowed and appropriate, communities would not know how much aid they would receive until several weeks from now when the House and Senate agree on a final version of the budget. (A "Yes" vote is for allowing members to offer budget amendments dealing with local aid. A "No" vote is against allowing it.)

ALLOW DEBATE ON WELFARE AND EBT CARDS (H 2999)

House 29-116, voted strictly along party lines and rejected an amendment allowing members to offer budget amendments dealing with welfare laws and Electronic Benefits Transfer (EBT) cards. The rules proposed by the Democratic leadership prohibit consideration of any welfare and EBT amendments. Two Democrats voted with GOP legislators to allow members to file those amendments. Amendment supporters said it is undemocratic to suddenly decide that legislators are banned from offering amendments to reform the welfare system. Amendment opponents said in November the House and Senate approved different versions of a comprehensive bill reforming the welfare system. They noted that a conference committee is currently trying to hammer out a compromise version and argued the House should let that committee do its work rather than opening up the issue again. (A "Yes" vote is for the amendment. A "No" vote is against it.)

ALLOW MORE TIME TO FILE BUDGET AMENDMENTS (H 2018)

House 29-116, voted strictly along party lines and rejected an amendment that would give members eight days instead of three days to file amendments to the state budget. Supporters of the new rule said the budget is a massive document that members must have time to read and understand before proposing amendments. Opponents said the three-day window has worked well and should not be changed. (A "Yes" vote is for allowing more time to file amendments. A "No" vote is against allowing it.)

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE (H 4084)

House 142-0, approved a bill that would require employers with 50 or more employees to allow workers who are victims of domestic violence, stalking or sexual assault to take a paid or unpaid annual 15-day leave of absence to address court, housing, health and other issues arising from the incident. Another key provision would prohibit the use of an "accord and satisfaction" agreement among employers to dismiss a domestic violence charge over the prosecutor's objection if the victim acknowledges in writing that he or she has signed an out-of-court private agreement with the offender. Other provisions create a new charge for a first offense of domestic assault; delay bail for domestic violence offenders by six hours, allowing victims an opportunity to find a safe place and get the necessary help; require training on domestic violence for judges, assistant district attorneys, law enforcement officers and medical professionals; and allow the purchase of self-defense sprays like Mace and pepper spray without a license. Massachusetts is the only state that still allows "accord and satisfaction" agreements and argued banning these would protect victims from being victimized again by being coerced into signing one. The Senate in October approved a different version of the bill. A conference committee will draft a compromise version. (A "Yes" vote is for the bill.)

GAS LEAKS (S 2078)

Senate 39-0, approved legislation that would require gas leaks to be repaired by the gas company in a time frame based on a three-tier classification system of dangerousness. Grade One leaks are most likely to cause an explosion and would have to be repaired immediately. Grade Two leaks are expected to create a hazard in the future and would have to be fixed within one year, while Grade Three leaks are non-hazardous and must be reevaluated during the next scheduled survey or within one year. Other provisions align civil penalties for pipeline facility and gas transportation safety violations with federal law; require gas leaks that are identified within a school zone to be prioritized; and mandate that gas companies be notified of any significant projects for public ways that expose natural gas infrastructure and that the company survey the project area for the presence of gas leaks. Supporters said the state's gas delivery system is the second oldest in the nation and has 5,700 miles of leak-prone distribution pipe and 20,000 known leaks. They noted the bill will help avoid gas leak tragedies, save lives and have a positive impact on the environment by reducing methane gas. The House has approved a different version of the measure and a conference committee will hammer out a compromise version. (A "Yes" vote is for the bill.)

MUST COMPLY WITH GLOBAL WARMING SOLUTIONS ACT (S 2078)

Senate 6-32, rejected an amendment requiring that the state's Department of Public Utilities determine that all programs in the bill are consistent with the state's environmental and public health policies including the Global Warming Solutions Act of 2008. That act requires the reduction of greenhouse gas emissions by 25 percent by 2020 and 80 percent by 2050. Amendment supporters said it is essential to make sure that the bill complies with the Global Warming Solutions Act — a landmark law that will help put Massachusetts in the forefront of the vital effort to stop global warming. Amendment opponents said state law already requires compliance with the Global Warming Solutions Act. They argued the Legislature should take action only when an administration has gone astray and is not living up to the requirements under law. (A "Yes" vote is for the amendment. A "No" vote is against it.)

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

• For the Selectman candidates:

Make the case for or against establishing a permanent bylaw or Governance Committee.

SELECTMAN CANDIDATE

Kevin McCarthy

I chaired the Governance Committee during the critical stages of the Amended Town Manager Act's (TMA) passage through the Legislature last fall and until it was finally signed into law last January. The TMA was passed by a large majority at the 2013 Town Meeting. It was the product of the active participation of over 28 citizens as they worked hard over a year in crafting the nuts and bolts of our democracy.

Active citizen participation in local governance is what a Governance Committee is all about and that is what should be preserved by the establishment of a permanent Governance Committee. Beyond the writing of our governing document a Governance Committee allows for citizen involvement in the ongoing analysis of such issues as the accountability and effective/efficient use of limited taxpayer dollars, the appointment process for town volunteers, examining the use of term-limits and committee structures and functions.

The Governance Committee must be accountable to our Board of Selectmen and ultimately to the citizens of Cohasset at Town Meeting. Citizens monitoring their own government but being ultimately accountable to the people at Town Meeting is at the essence of direct democracy – which is our most precious gift and heritage from the past. It is the legacy from our forebears, who developed a certain discomfort with being governed by forces far away and beyond their control, and one which we should preserve and pass on to those who follow us. A standing Governance Committee helps keep our democracy close to home where we can keep a close eye on it and that, in my view, is a very good thing.

Diane Kennedy

The current Governance Committee, formed in late 2011, will sunset at the conclusion of Town Meeting later this month. I am strongly in favor of a governance committee with a renewed charge, to complete the work of assessing committee structure, the possibility of term limits and associate positions, the appointment process, and a review of our by-laws.

The Governance Committee was formed by the Board of Selectmen in response to a petition from hundreds of community members who were upset with the Board's July 2011 decision to not reappoint three Conservation Commission members. At the time, I argued that if selectmen took issue with members serving too long, this should be addressed through a study of term limits and committee structure. The Governance Committee began that work in early 2012, along with the additional charge to address more immediate concerns relating to the Town Manager Act. I remain committed to the tremendous value of having a citizen's group look into governance issues and hope that such a committee would continue this important work.

Many communities have governance or government study groups that are appointed by the town moderator. The citizen's petition relating to the formation of a governance committee wisely places governance appointments in the hands of the Troika: the town moderator, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, and the chairman of the Advisory Committee. I am confident such an appointment process would take the perceived "politics" out of the committee and enable a group of engaged and thoughtful citizens to make recommendations to the community that are in the long-term best interest of the Town.

SELECTMAN CANDIDATE

Fred Koed

I think it's beneficial for Cohasset to periodically review the bylaws to ensure they're consistent with the Town Manager Act, state law and the needs of the Town, and I would support a Bylaw Committee appointed by the Selectmen.

The Selectmen are Cohasset's policy-making Board, elected by the citizens, and they should have the flexibility to set the charge and direct the committee.

The current Governance Committee was scheduled to sunset at the end of 2013 and was charged with reviewing the bylaws and resolving any conflicts with the Town Manager Act. Because their work was unfinished the Committee requested an extension until the 2014 Annual Town Meeting and the Board of Selectmen agreed to extend their term.

Along with many helpful changes that brought the bylaws into sync with the Town Manager Act, the Governance Committee also proposed several bylaw changes that were outside their jurisdiction and substantially affected policy. One proposal was to make permanent the "Budget Planning Group," despite the fact there was no discussion of the proposal with the Selectmen, Town Manager or BPG itself and that some members of the current BPG feel it is an ineffective tool.

I don't support a permanent Governance Committee, as described in the Citizens' Petition, because that committee would have the authority to bypass the Selectmen and put articles on the Warrant that substantially affect policy. The creation of a second policy making board would be divisive and create unnecessary conflict.

Next week's question

• For the Selectman candidates: Since there has been an acting police chief for two years and the Cohasset Police Department is running smoothly – would you encourage the new Town Manager to promote from within or spend additional funds to conduct a wide search for a permanent chief?

Responses should be brief – no more than 275 words – and must be received by noon, Wednesday (April 23). Candidates are asked to be specific and make every word count. Submissions will be cut if they exceed the word limit.

Candidates should reply by e-mail at mford@wickedlocal.com.

The Mariner will also publish a weekly Candidates' Corner, which will be limited to a few paragraphs (about 175 words), from any candidate who chooses to submit dates of coffees, fund-raisers, short issue statements and the like.

All candidates opposed or unopposed are also invited to submit photographs and formal statements announcing their candidacies.

The Mariner will not accept letters to the editor from candidates or letters endorsing or attacking particular candidates. The Mariner will publish letters about campaign issues from citizens not seeking election.

If you have questions, or would like to suggest a Question of the Week, call Mary Ford at 781-741-2933 or contact her by e-mail at mford@wickedlocal.com.

CANDIDATES CORNER

Fred Koed

"Fred Koed joined a group of school and town officials that recently attended a two-day New England 1:1 Summit on Technology in the Classroom in Burlington."

"The Burlington Public Schools have been a pilot for integration of the digital world into the classroom and is a leader in the national technology integration movement," said Koed.

"On Friday we toured the Burlington Middle School 1:1 classrooms and observed students preparing a public service announcement on water issues in the Middle East," Koed said. On Saturday keynote speaker Pat Larkin pointed out one of the biggest challenges for our school systems is that the students' "future job descriptions haven't been written yet."

Koed explained that "As Cohasset explores practical strategies for a successful integration of technology in the classroom, I learned there are three critical components: Infrastructure, technology support staff and a robust professional development plan."

"I've worked in information technology for 25 years and I understand how critical it is to education. I will do everything I can to support the Cohasset Schools' drive toward better educational technology support of our students," said Koed.

Kevin McCarthy

I am a veteran and member of Cohasset's American Legion Post # 118. If elected, I would be the only member of the Board of Selectman who served in the Armed Forces. I am familiar with the perspectives and needs of Cohasset's veteran population and their families.

Last fall I attended the annual Veteran's Benefits forum in Cohasset to learn more about the current federal, state and local benefits available to our veterans and their families. I am supportive of a well-equipped local veteran's office in Cohasset where our veterans, and those who serve them, can meet in a professional atmosphere in order to best address their needs and issues in a proper manner. As a Selectman, I would provide an active and caring voice for Cohasset's veteran community and I would strongly support our local Veteran's Services Director in his role of serving our veterans.

For more information about my candidacy and how to volunteer and donate, please visit my website at kevinmccarthy4cohasset.com.

Diane Kennedy

Diane Kennedy has updated her campaign website www.kennedy4cohasset.org and encourages residents to visit the website for information or to contact her about issues in town.

"Deciding to run for a second term on the Cohasset Board of Selectmen was easy. I have enjoyed bringing sensible, objective and forward-thinking leadership to the Town. The best part of being a Selectmen is getting to know and work with so many dedicated residents and employees who ask questions and bring healthy, respectful debate and new ideas to each conversation – always with the best interest of the Town in mind."

Kennedy has served for two years as Vice Chairman of the Board and is the liaison to numerous town committees including Cohasset Elder Affairs, School Committee, Sewer Commission, Town Hall Restoration/Renovation Committee and is a member of the Community Preservation Committee and the Budget Planning Group. She serves on the Mass Municipal & Regional Policy Committee and has been instrumental in bringing together a group of selectmen from neighboring communities to discuss cooperative initiatives and share ideas.

GIRLS LACROSSE

Girls drop pair to NDA and Duxbury, beat Hull

The Cohasset Mariner

The Cohasset High School girl's lacrosse team played the number one and two ranked teams in Massachusetts and had a tough week losing 16-2 to NDA and 18-4 to Duxbury. Goalie Shea Kearney turned in a great first half performance against Duxbury with 10 saves but the Skippers could not generate much offense and that led to a blizzard of shots from in close.

Cohasset finished the week on a much brighter note with an 18-5 South Shore League win over Hull. The Skippers jumped out to a quick lead and subbed liberally throughout the game. Molly Cunningham led the scoring with her first two varsity goals followed by Maddie and Callie O'Neill who each notched two scores. Kearney was strong again between the pipes with eight saves.

The Skippers will bring their 5-2 record on the road for a rare doubleheader on the Cape next week against Mashpee and Sandwich.

YOUTH LACROSSE

Season in full swing

The Cohasset lacrosse season is well under way. Last weekend the fourth grade boys hosted perennial powerhouses Concord Carlisle and Dover Sherborn at Alumni Field.

More passes were caught than dropped and the team was able to keep their two-game unbeaten streak alive.

The boys have a week off to recuperate before taking on Winchester on the road next weekend. For more photos, see page 16.

third singles today and won his first varsity match, 6-2, 6-1. It was nice to see a ninth grader get his first win."

Second doubles were another positive.

"Will Gildey played second doubles with Sam Greenip," Thomae said. "They both picked up points that counted. It was a good day."

At first singles, Doug Fitzgerald was a 6-0, 6-0 winner.

In the second singles spot,

Dan Surkovic had a good day, a 6-0, 6-0 win.

With Speer playing third single, Sam Pitts moved down to play first doubles with Nathan Bumstead. That pair were also winners.

"We've been able to get some practice in, so the guys have been able to get to know each other," Thomae said.

After the Rockland Meet, Cohasset was set to face Holbrook.

Results were unavailable at press time.

Next week will be quiet, as the team has the week off for April vacation.

BASEBALL

ting at 4-2 is pretty good. We definitely have room to improve in all aspects of the game and that is quite encouraging, because we've been able to win games without playing our best ball."

There have been some excellent performances this season.

"Early season surprises so far are Ryan McKeon, (senior pitcher)," Afanasiw said. "He has yet to register his first varsity win, but in his first two starts he has logged two consecutive quality starts. Last Friday against Norwell, he pitched five complete innings and gave up only two earned runs, but he left the game tied 4-4."

The other part of the battery has also made noise.

"Another pleasant uptick has been the play of our junior catcher Brett Dooley," Afanasiw said. "He has been very strong behind the plate and had a massive RBI double against Norwell last Friday. He has really called great games so far, and seems to truly enjoy the mental aspect of his position. He is also as competitive as they come and plays the game the right way, with his attitude and hustle."

Afanasiw said the next few games will be big ones.

"We have Scituate tomorrow (Thursday, results were unavailable at press time) and hopefully we'll be able to go down the road and put together another nice team performance against them like we did the first time," Afanasiw said.

The Skippers will face Rockland today at 9 a.m. in a makeup game and Monday will be a day of baseball at home with a double-header against Dennis-Yarmouth.

"If we come out and play hard, I think we should be able to make a good game of it," Afanasiw said about Scituate on Thursday morning, before the anticipated showdown. "We then have a double header at Milliken on Monday against Dennis Yarmouth, and those will really be good tests, they are a strong D-2 team, and play a tough schedule. We're looking forward to them having to come up here this year."

co) deserves a lot of the credit. He's such a good goaltender and he keeps us in games and really helps out our offense."

able at press time).

"You learn a lot from playing a well-coached team such as Duxbury," said Beaudoin.

"Moving forward, we need to clean up here and there and work on the little things. The (Chowda Cup) is great to test us and see what we need to work on to be ready for our run to the playoffs."

Scituate and Marshfield will be the other two teams in the Chowda Cup, which is in its final year.

Heading back a game before Duxbury, the Skippers edged a solid Hanover team that was looking for an upset.

The Skippers pulled off a 9-7 win in that game behind a three-goal game by Axelson.

After the Chowda Cup, Cohasset will have a busy vacation week, as they face Mashpee Wednesday and Norwood on Friday.

Lobster Trap Christmas Tree benefits Food Pantry

John Covell, who's idea it was to construct the first annual Lobster Trap Christmas Tree in Cohasset, presented a $1,500 check to the Cohasset Food Pantry. Those funds represented proceeds beyond the actual cost of erecting and decorating the tree in December 2013.

Funding to build the tree and to purchase decorations was received through the donations of townspeople and Ron Goodwin of Goodwin Graphics. Goodwin designed a 1-4-3 lobster buoys logo and he offered various items including T-shirts and sweatshirts for sale. He donated $10 for each item sold to the tree fund. "Once Ron made the commitment to make these donations, we knew that we would have more than enough money for the tree. We then decided to donate any excess to the Cohasset Food Pantry," said Covell. He added, "Our costs to construct the tree were mostly onetime expenses as we will be able to use the decorations in subsequent years." The actual first year's costs were over $1,000.

John Covell gives Moira Stansell and Jane Corry, co-directors of Cohasset Food Pantry, a check for $1,500.

Jarrett has a long history in marine ecology in New England, having started his career working at marine labs in Nahant and the Isles of Shoals as an undergraduate. He went on to complete a doctor of philosophy at the University of California, Davis, in Population Biology studying the communities of organisms that foul boat hulls and live on docks and pier pilings throughout the world. He then worked in Santa Barbara studying giant kelp forests and working in science crowd funding. He has been back in Boston for two years, and has a growing research program examining how the diversity of life shapes the function of New England Salt Marshes.

CPD using app to connect with community

The Cohasset Police Department has found a new way to communicate and engage with residents of their town.

Police have begun using the My Police Department or MyPD phone application as a means to provide notifications and information to citizens regarding events, crimes and wanted persons.

MyPD is an app that can be downloaded free through iTunes or Google Play. With it, citizens have access to a number of features, including certain department contacts, feedback functions,

MyPD phone application provides notifications and information to citizens regarding events, crimes and wanted persons.

and tip forms. Users can also access information from FEMA, the National Weather Service and the Massachusetts Sex Offender Registry, and much more, according to Cohasset Police.

"Our MyPD app is a great addition to the agency and goes directly toward my goal making the department more accessible to residents via the Internet and through the use of technology," said Acting Police Chief William Quigley. "We can push out notifications and alerts to the public via Twitter and the public has a variety of ways to contact us and give us feedback easily from a smartphone or tablet."

Quigley said that while 911 continues to be the appropriate method to report emergency situations and request a response from the police department, the app will provide people with email addresses for certain department personnel and provide yet another avenue to interact with the department in non-critical situations.

The MyPD app is compatible with both Apple and Android smart phones.

Be sure to "like" the Cohasset Police Facebook page for more updates.

Senior Center groundbreaking on the way

On Thursday, April 10 the Social Service League of Cohasset hosted its first appreciation event for donors to the new Cohasset Senior Center project.

Guests mingled and heard project updates from the League's president Marita Carpenter, as well as plans for new senior programming from Cohasset Elder Affairs director Coral Grande. Following the remarks, participants toured the Sohier Street work site and further reviewed plans for the new facility (all of the initial financial backers of the project are listed below).

The next event, a community groundbreaking, will be held on Sunday, May 4 at 1 p.m. The event, open to the public, will be held at the site of the new Cohasset Senior Center (91 Sohier St.).

Those interested in learning more about the project or becoming a donor are asked to contact Social Service League president Marita Carpenter at marita.carpenter@gmail.com or (781) 383-0771.

Christopher R. Detwiler

NORWELL - Christopher R. Detwiler, died on April 6, in the Norwell home he shared with his parents for forty nine years.

Chris had a brave spirit and a generous heart. His wants were few, but his pleasures were many. He loved being with his friends; the staff and his fellow coworkers at Road to Responsibility in Marshfield, the volunteers and his buddies at Friendship Home in Norwell and the members of his church, First Parish of Norwell. He was a regular and a favorite at PJ's restaurant in Scituate. His ready smile and his clear enjoyment of life's simple gifts endeared him to others wherever he went.

Nothing made Chris happier than the celebration of the many family birthdays, and no birthday was planned without Chris in mind. His own was the occasion for a week of festivities. Celebration wasn't limited to birthdays, however, for Chris found every event a cause to celebrate, from the first spring peeper to the winter solstice. He loved exciting weather, music of all kinds, a special meal, travel abroad, a day watching planes come and go and any outing with his special buddy, his dad. His wonder and delight was often expressed with a hearty "Wow!"

His quick sense of humor, his intuitive sense of what others were feeling, and his joy in small things were a lesson, an inspiration and a blessing.

Chris was at the center of a large and adoring family. He leaves his parents Betsy and Robert, his brother Andrew and wife Katherine, brother Peter and wife Julie, brother Jonathan and wife Laurie, brother Jefferson and wife Meredith and his nieces and nephews Kelsey, Alandar, Isabelle, Chad, Conor, Forrest, William (Liam), Harrison, William (Will) and Soren. He also leaves his loving aunt, Sylvia Loud Slakey and her husband Steven, of Glendora, CA and a number of cousins.

The family would like to express its gratitude for the loving care and support of the wonderful nurses of South Shore Hospital and the Norwell VNA and Hospice.

A private burial service will be held for family. A celebration of Chris's life will take place on May 31, at 11 a.m. at First Parish of Norwell, 24 River Street, Norwell, MA.

For those wishing to honor this very special life, the family would appreciate donations to Road to Responsibility, 1831 Ocean Street, Marshfield, MA, 02050 or Friendship Home, PO Box 916, 458 Main Street, Norwell, MA, 02061.

SPECIAL TO THE MARINER

Navy captain of Cohasset nominated for Rear Admiral

A Cohasset High School alumna has reached a prestigious achievement in the U.S. Navy.

Secretary of Defense Chuck Hagel announced March 26 that President Obama has nominated Navy Captain and Cohasset native Michelle Coyne Skubic for appointment to the rank of Rear Admiral. She currently serves as Chief of Staff, Naval Supply Systems Command (NAVSUP), Mechanicsburg, Pa.

Her father, retired Cmdr. Thomas Coyne, previously served as Commanding Officer, USS Constitution, in Boston in the early 1970s, at which time she attended junior high and later Cohasset High School, which Capt. Skubic said holds a "special place in my memories for those years on the South Shore." Her parents, Thomas and Karen Coyne, have retired to Pensacola, Fla.

Capt. Skubic holds a Bachelor's degree in Business Management from California State University, Fullerton and a Master's degree in Acquisition and Contract Management from Naval Post Graduate School, where she graduated with distinction and was awarded the Naval Supply Systems Command Award for Academic Excellence in Management and the Assistant Secretary of the Navy Acquisition Excellence Award.

She previously served as commanding officer, NAVSUP Fleet Logistics Center (FLC) Norfolk, Va. Capt. Skubic has served as the services officer and carrier readiness officer at Commander, Naval Air Force, U.S. Pacific Fleet, San Diego; combined bachelor quarters officer and aviation support division officer, Naval Air Station Sigonella, Sicily; deputy department head for program contracts, Naval Air Systems Command in Patuxent River, Md.; deputy force supply officer, Commander, Naval Surface Forces, San Diego; and director of supplier operations, Defense Logistics Agency (DLA) Aviation, Richmond, Va.

port Team in Kuwait, where her team, in concert with other DLA activities, supported United States Central Command, United

New Dawn and Enduring Freedom. She deployed forward from her role as director of DLA aviation, Supplier Operations.

At sea she served as division officer in readiness and services billets, USS Acadia (AD-42), which involved an eight-month deployment for Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm and her division's selection as the Best Sales and Services Division for the Pacific Fleet. She also served as the supply officer for Precommissioning Unit McFaul (DDG-74), built in Pascagoula, Ms., during which her department earned its first Supply Blue "E" Award for logistics excellence. Capt. Skubic also served as the supply officer for Precommissioning Unit George H. W. Bush (CVN-77), built in Newport News, Va., which was commissioned to the fleet in January 2009.

Her personal decorations include the Defense Superior Service Medal, Legion of Merit, Defense Meritorious Service Medal, Meritorious Service Medal (two gold stars), Navy Commendation

Medal (two gold stars), and the Navy Achievement Medal (two gold stars). She is designated as a Naval Aviation Supply Officer and a Surface Warfare Supply Corps Officer.

The NAVSUP and Navy Supply Corps team share one mission — to deliver sustained global logistics capabilities to the Navy and Joint warfighter. NAVSUP/Navy Supply Corps' diverse team of more than 25,000 civilian and military personnel oversee a diverse portfolio including supply chain management for material support to Navy, Marine Corps, joint and coalition partners, supply operations, conventional ordnance, contracting, resale, fuel, transportation, security assistance, and quality of life issues for the naval forces, including food service, postal services, Navy Exchanges, and movement of household goods. The NAVSUP/Navy Supply Corps team forms a vast network of professionals who deliver unparalleled products and services to customers in the fleet and across the world.
